We worked, played, and sometimes even studied

The first week at school wasn't so bad; the students were dismissed at one o'clock each day because of teachers' meetings. This didn't last forever, though. On September 8 it was back to "Readin,' Ritin,' and 'Rithmetic." The Comanches opened their football season with a game at Central Catholic on the following Saturday.

Report cards were issued for the first nine-week period early in November. A few days later the High School Band presented a band concert.

Dancing is the principal thing.

Sometimes it's work and play.

The Comanches christened the new gym when they played O'Fallon, Cahokia's first basketball game of the year. "Life of the Party," a comedy, was presented by the Ad Libbers in late November.

Everyone seemed to enjoy the Happy Holiday Dance given by the Junior Class shortly before Christmas. The orchestra carried out the holiday theme by playing Christmas tunes at intervals during the evening. The music departments in the district combined for a Christmas concert just before the vacation. During the Holidays the Comanches participated in the annual Holiday Tournament at Pontiac, Illinois.

The first school week of 1953 for C.C.H.S. students was spent in studying for semester exams. Right after exams came a dance given in a Winter Wonderland by the F.H.A. Late in January the G.A.A. sponsored a box social. The girls had their opportunity to catch a man at the Sadie Hawkins party given by the G.A.A. on February 7.

March saw tournament time for the Comanches. Report cards were issued again in the latter part of March, thus ending the third nine-week period.

April was a busy month for the bands because of the district music contests. The Cahokia Track Team was a participant in the Roxana Invitational Track Meet. Late in April, Student Council sent delegates to the Illinois Association of Student Councils' convention which was held in Chicago.

The final month of school was a very busy one with state music contests, a district baseball tournament, a district track meet, and the Junior-Senior Prom—one of the biggest events of the year. The Prom was given by the Juniors on May 9. Baccalaureate services and Graduation were the last school activities.

And thus the chronicles of Cahokia are closed and recorded for another year.

The CAHOCHRON staff, representing the students of Cahokia Commonfields, pays tribute to those of the Administration who have given their time and talent to the operation of a successful school. The specialists in this delicate operation have been, unquestionably, Mr. Brien, Mr. Knecht, and Mr. Rodemich.

The students were attended by these unhesitating, hard-working, little-acclaimed men who prescribed the needed treatment for all ailments.

The CAHOCHRON salutes them!

Mr. W. W. Knecht, Principal and Assistant Superintendent

Outstanding leader . . . fine personality . . . friendly and informal . . . Everyone in C.C.H.S. is proud to call him friend.

The every-busy general practitioners have been those of the office staff—Miss Johann Upchurch, Mrs. Vera Sauls, Mrs. Helen Vogt, Miss Cora May McConnell, and Miss Verene Behen. To keep the school running smoothly, they have kept countless records, answered hundreds of calls, wrapped endless rolls of money, written thousands of excuses, and everlastingly dinged the class bell.

Those who have administered to the needs of the school have been the members of the Board of Education. These men have willingly served the students and the people of the community with one goal in mind—the establishment of an unequalled school. To these men the CAHOCHRON says, "Thanks for a job well done."

Could you read the SENIOR story?
You'll like it we know.

Can you read about the JUNIORS;
They have great things to show!

How about the SOPHOMORE history?
We'll assume you liked it, too.

Say now, read about JUNIOR HIGH;
They're the newest of the new.

Would you dig those crazy Seniors!

If the Seniors had kept a diary of their school life, it would read something like this:

"Amo," DONNELL JOSEPH AMO, could always keep up with the best of them. Once, when a senior girl was teasing him about his five whiskers, he quipped, "Heck, I've been shaving for three years and cut myself both times." GLEN ELLIS, DAN ROMANIC, and JOHN BAKER spent most of their free hours out driving in John's car. SHIRLEY BAUR and LARRY PARKER, the inseparables, had it "made" their junior year. Larry dedicated a full hour of Solid Geometry class each day to scratching Shirley's back.

The McENTIRES, CHARLENE and LLOYD, were newcomers to C.C.H.S. in their last year. They were a brother and sister team that made friends easily.

JERRY WALLACE spent his first year on the Comanche Reservation doing great things; namely, maintaining a five-point average, becoming co-captain of both the football and basketball teams, and just being an all-round good guy. The last newcomers to the senior class hailed from Arkansas. RUBY DENT, a true southern belle with a sho' nuf' drawl, was a swell addition to C.C.H.S. halls. One look at J. W. HOGGARD and the Comanches found they had just what they needed, a six-foot-four center for their basketball team—he "sure" was a help.

Among the loud and noisy seniors, there were a quiet few—PAT JAKOWSKI, JANE MALLETT, JOAN ANN RANGE, and MARGARET RICE. Here were four nice gals who could always be depended upon to do their part in a cheerful way. JIMMIE HOPEWELL, DON NAUMAN, JOEY VECERA, WILLIE RAMELOT, BOB WHEELER, and BERNARD GREEN collected recipes from Betty Crocker all their last year. Seems they really enjoyed their second-hour Home Living class. MYRA THOMPSON and BARBARA JOHNSON objected to leaving school without a certain part of the junior class. They should have arranged for a post-graduate course. Noon hour at C.C.H.S. frequently found ETNA MAE EUGEA and JEWELL HAYES busy in the typing room. MARLYN SUDBERRY, MARILYN McCAULEY, and JANE HILL planned to change their last names soon after graduation. That explains the Advanced Homemaking!

The Presidents from George's day on had sittings with W. R. MORRIS, the baseball fiend. The Presidents' pictures adorned the walls of the history room. BOB SIMPSON, Miss Dunn's idea of an all-American boy, was always "real cat" with his black suede shoes and their white soles. Nurses' Aid, MATTIE DONAHUE, spent many of her school hours participating in D.O. GUS HERDERHORST, one of the Varsity men, claimed that he hated to have the other "silly brains" in senior English begging him to do their homework. It was a happy day for two girls, JO BRYAN and LUAN HOLCOMB, when they finally passed their 80 in shorthand.

Two Monsanto boys, JACK HALL and GENE BATSON, weren't a bit alike. One was quiet, the other not so quiet; one could jitterbug, the other couldn't; one was dark, the other light. Goes to prove that Monsanto products aren't always the same. JOHN BOHANNON, another Monsanto lad, was president of his junior and senior classes and also chief executive of the Student Council. The kids loved to watch his rendition of "Uncle Sam wants YOU!"

EVA MILLATTI and MARY LOU PIPER did their best to make the Comanche Hops, pie socials, playdays, and various other G.A.A. activities a success. GENE VOGT, alias the Voggut, and REMO, BOB REMELIUS, that is, liked to make an occasional visit to Wallace's Bar-B-Q to get pig snoots; they claimed they not only ate 'em, but luv'd 'em! Remo, who made his mark in football, and Gene, who won honors in cross country, were faithful members of the ticket-taking squad at basketball games.

One of the cutest members of the senior class was MELVA GISCHER. One laddie, who had already finished his school days, found her irresistible. DALE CHANEY acted as mailman fifth hour for the faculty. JIMMY GANDY, Cahokia's Harry James, spent a good deal of his time making beautiful noise. In his many years of contest attendance, Jimmy never received anything but a first rating—quite a record! "Big Don" printed the school's basketball schedules. DON CAMPBELL got his nickname "cause he is as he is." The twins, NORMA and DORMA WAKEFIELD, and RUTH ENTEMAN made a neat trio. Anyone who could find one of these girls without the other two was a better man than Gunga Din. NORMAN JUNG was more interested in the 1952 cheering squad than this year's. Three "real cute guys" in the senior class were BOB GRIDER, BUDDY MAGOUIRK, and DANNY JEROME. Danny took his place on the gridiron team and Buddy was a member of D.O.

CAROL KEENEY and DOROTHY PATRICK, co-editors of the Cahochron, were noted for their sut-i-lut-lut-yut-ness. They will long remember their early morning walks, their joining the malt-slingers union, and their entering history class wrapped in bandages "looking like accidents going someplace to happen." RONALD PHILLIPS and BOB TALBOTT were another part of Cahokia's pigskin eleven. Ronald played tackle and Talbott guard. Red Talbott was also a member of Student Council. PAT SMITH acted as exchange editor for the Council Ring. She was also good at getting posters made. RICHARD SCHISLER, one of the seniors with his own car, earned that needed green stuff by working at a local filling station.

Looking back to their high-school days, the Seniors remember—

It was their freshman year of high school—how they looked up to the seniors! Some of these upperclassmen were even nice enough to direct the green freshies to the cafeteria. Their first class party was on St. Pat's Day and their first public appearance was in the operetta "In Old St. Louis." The girls will long remember the first dresses they made in homemaking. The dresses were never worn—could be they were too long, too short, too baggy, or too tight. Of course, no girl ever admitted to any fault in her very first sewing achievement. The boys now wonder if their moms really liked those little wooden hot pads that were taken home. It took only one hot pan to ruin the shiny gloss that had been labored over.

As sophomores, the class felt they knew their way around a little better. Their volleyball and basketball improved, and they were no longer the last to be chosen on a team. The headstand and backbend which seemed so difficult the year before were executed with ease during the semester on tumbling. The boys found that their dads would sometimes let them have the car. They managed to get the car for the sophomore Valentine Party. Their dates wore high heels, probably for the first time. The boys tried to look a little taller than their sophomore years.

At last the class became a junior class, and at a new school, too! They sold candy and soda at football and basketball games at Maplewood Grade School since the high-school gym wasn't completed. As a matter of fact, the school wasn't completed. Untiled floors, rooms without lights, rolling wheel-barrows filled with plaster, workmen all around were not uncommon sights the first semester of their junior year. In the spring, the class convinced the teachers that they just couldn't have a prom without attendants and a queen. The Prom, the school's first formal dance, was held in Parks Air College Gymnasium. Long hours were spent in decorating for this event. Help from Parks' students was appreciated in more ways than one—at least, by the girls. Everyone was pleased as punch when the collegiate-looking class rings came to school.

The last year of high-school brings forth the most memories. The boys will always remember being yanked out of line for cutting in and having senior girls casually take their places—all while the teacher was busy elsewhere. The only class reserved strictly for seniors is fourth-year English. One of the most pleasant memories from that class consist of two words, "Congratulations, Comanches," neatly written across the front board following a basketball victory. History class was a lot of fun, too. Such things as, "What time does the bus come down Carol Street;" "Give us the Menu for today;" and, "Sure, he said we could get out of class fifteen minutes early to go to Wayne's" were just a few of the students' daily joshing remarks. The football and basketball boys had a good time on their away games. It was always nice to stop on the way home for food—especially when the coach footed the bill. Thoughts of secretarial training bring back varied memories: Notebooks full of shorthand with a red line through each page, page after page of wasted typing paper because of a two-error limit, gooey pink stuff put on faces to make them beautiful, and being scared stiff at the first dictation on a job.

It hardly seemed over yesterday that the class was starting out on their high-school career, but they found themselves going through the formalities of closing up that phase of their life. There was a wonderful Skip Day, their last Prom, Baccalaureate, and GRADUATION.

They're real cool Juniors

The days of a Junior at Cahokia in 1952-1953 might read something like this page taken from one boy's diary:

"I go to the corner in the morning to catch the school bus. After fifteen or twenty minutes, the bus comes screeching up to a halt. I slowly fall on. The bus rambles into the school parking lot about ten 'til eight —just time enough for me to fly into the building, get my books, and dash upstairs before the bell rings. I manage to live through my first hour, which is Physics. Second hour I go to my favorite class—gym. Then I go hear Mr. Logan talk about American History dates and such foolish stuff as that. By fourth hour I am half-starved. I patiently wait in line for my lunch. After stuffing in food, it's off to the gym for some basketball. I start off the afternoon with another favorite class—study hall. After wasting an hour studying, I go upstairs to wear my fingers to stubs in typing class. My last hour of the day is spent in learning something foreign, predicate nominatives by name. After school I run my legs off in basketball. What a life. But come to think of it—all of it is fun!"

The school year for the Juniors was full of fun and work. It all started on a bright morning in September. The corridors of Cahokia were filled with the laughter and talk of the newest crop of "jolly" juniors. They felt superior since they were now upperclassmen. Also, this was the year they would receive the much-admired and long-awaited class rings.

When basketball season rolled around, it found the Juniors ready to make money by selling pop and candy to the spectators of the games. The selling committee was headed by industrious Jim Adams.

Before Christmas, the Junior Class sponsored a "Happy Holiday Dance." This was the very first all-date dance held in the new gymnasium. Holiday music was furnished by Carlos Camacho and his orchestra. The gym was festive with gaily decorated Christmas trees and colored lights. Punch, made from a secret formula concocted by junior chefs, was served.

In the spring, many committees sprang up in the Junior-class ranks. Much time and effort went into the planning of the one great social event of the year —the Banquet and Prom. The Juniors had decided to give the Seniors a banquet in addition to the traditional prom. Jim Adams, Gary Groce, Bill Bollinger, Leonard Bohannon, Martha Capper, and June Ann Reiss made up the board of directors for the planning and execution of the banquet and prom.

During the week before the gala affair, the Juniors had joined whole-heartedly in the task of changing the gymnasium into a dreamland. Having the prom in the gym was another first for this class.

The day of the Prom, May 9, the Juniors were still hard at work putting the finishing touches to the gym and decorating the dining hall for the banquet. That evening, the Seniors and Faculty stepped into a beautiful world the Juniors had created for them—a world well-worth remembering.

They live the life of a real gone Sophomore

The sophomores were glad for the coming of the new school year. It meant they had graduated from the "green" stage of high school and had become "silly" sophomores. As freshmen last year, they looked forward to the day when they would no longer be low men on the Comanche totem pole. A junior high was formed and this put the sophomores back on the bottom of the totem pole.

School life was quite different for the sophomores. The building was nearing completion. Many of the jokes and difficulties of the first year had almost been forgotten. The old cow bell still rang out merrily over a new, modernistic inter-communication system. Otherwise, the school in its second year had grown up, just as the students in their second year had grown up. The students found they had more privileges as sophomores, but they took all these in their stride. They applied themselves to the study of "bug-ology," world history, and English.

The sophomores one big extra-curricular activity for the year was an all-school dance in the spring. Since the dance was held on March 14, it followed the theme of St. Patrick's Day. The gym was decorated in green and white with a setting in the middle of the floor. Carlos Comacho's orchestra furnished the music for the dancing.

The sophomore class performed various services for the school. Twenty-four sophomores were chosen to serve the upperclassmen and faculty at the junior-senior prom in May.

Grade nine doesn't dig that crazy lingo

On the first day of school one group of students stepped off the bus with reluctance. They were disgusted—they were still "junior-high kids." After a few weeks of complaining to one another, they decided the system wasn't so bad after all. They found they had a better chance to participate in the sports; they elected their own student council; choose cheerleaders; organized an F.H.A.; sang in a mixed chorus. They were invited to go to the senior-high games and parties —even the Homecoming and Winter-Wonderland dances! With band concerts, games, and all the activities, they found themselves practically flying!

The ninth graders became proud of their rank in the school. No "green freshie" stage for them. Then, too, they daily enjoyed an hour's longer sleep than the elite upper classmen!

Under the supervision of Mr. Sachs, Mrs. Black, and Mr. Hinson, the Student Council has had a very successful year. Johnny Bohannon served in the capacity of President and was the Council's driving force.

The Council sponsored the Homecoming parade and dance, and they again had the March of Dimes contest. They helped organize the Junior High Student Council.

The basketball season opened with the dedication of the newly finished gymnasium. The Council was in charge of the ceremonies.

By selling pencils, pennants, and emblems, the Student Council was able to send delegates to the State Student Council Convention at Chicago in April.

These achievements of the Student Council were accomplished with one thought in mind—to benefit the students whom the members represent.

Today's Annual Day: be sure to get your candy

"Have you finished your write-ups yet?" These were familiar words to the staff as they entered the CAHOCHRON meetings every Wednesday night after school. Munching candy, the staff worked furiously to complete overdue copy.

Of course, there was fun mixed with the work. Especially enjoyable were the times when Miss Masten would call staff members from classes to help the photographer or Mr. Sluder would take a few students on a jaunt to sell advertising.

Annual sales increased rapidly when the staff announced that anyone holding a dated receipt would be admitted free to a masked Halloween party. CAHOCHRON sales in senior high were close to 100 per cent.

The staff worked in the evenings, after school, during school, and on Saturdays to make this the best annual possible for the students of C.C.H.S.

Now two years old, the COUNCIL RING—under the able steerage of Editor Perry Taylor, Feature Editors Dorothy Patrick and Barbara Johnson, Exchange (do-what-we-need) Editor Patsy Smith, and Sports Editor Clifford Heil—boasted more nearly complete coverage of school news.

At home in a room shared only with the CAHOCHRON, the COUNCIL RING (with a file of its own, a table, one typewriter, and two chairs) has developed into a more responsible organization. It was issued tri-weekly the first semester and bi-weekly the second semester. The staff initiated "Letters to the Editor" this year, entered a float in Cahokia's first Homecoming parade, and sold "pop" at the ninth-grade tourney to finance a camera for the publications.

Perry Taylor, Barbara Johnson, Dorothy Patrick, Patsy Smith, Bob Edmondson, Marilyn Tyler, and Edith Tripp represented Cahokia at the annual convention of the Illinois State High School Press Association held in Champaign, Illinois, on November 17.

We got rhythm

The Terpsichorean Club, C.C.H.S.'s newest organization, is under the able direction of Mrs. Logan and has Mr. Mayer as pianist. The girls have as their aim the presentation of three essentials of dance art—muscular co-ordination, dance technique, and expression through movement. They presented a self-created Comanche dance at an assembly and dedicated it to the school in honor of the athletic teams.

Life of the party

On November 25, the Ad Libbers presented the comedy, "Life of the Party," a warm and funny understanding study of modern youth and the modern family.

The Hughes family moves to Butterfield and begins to choose friends. They make mistakes, of course, but in the end they are wiser because of them.

Attention class

This year marked the founding of a Future Teachers Club at Cahokia. Meetings were held at night twice a month. Soon after the founding of F.T.A., the Club started performing a service to the school by furnishing substitute teachers for the various classes.

One of the more popular F.T.A. activities was the sponsorship once a week of noon-hour movie programs.

The Club was named for Prof. Harold C. Hand, one of the chief educators in Illinois. The Future Teachers were honored by having Prof. Hand present at one of their meetings.

Practice 'til 9:30

The Cahokia Drama Club, better known as the Ad Libbers, presented "Life of the Party," a three-act comedy, as its fall play. The Club then busied itself with it's spring production of "Brother Goose," a three-act play.

On February 14, the Club took a trip to the American Theater to see Van Heflin in "The Shrike."

The officers of the Club were June Ann Reiss, President; Marilyn Tyler, Vice-President; Edith Tripp, Secretary-Treasurer; and Dorothy Patrick, Student Council Representative.

"We are the Future Homemakers of America. We face the future with warm courage and high hopes." Each member tries to live up to these opening lines of the F.H.A. creed. Mrs. Frazier, the capable sponsor, again guided the F.H.A.

The World Christmas Festival and a clothing drive were sponsored by the F.H.A. In January, Charlotte Thompson was crowned new F.H.A. queen at a Winter-Wonderland Dance. Myra Thompson was chairman of this big event. F.H.A. girls brought their dads as guests to the annual Daddy-Date night. A taffy-pulling party, National Birthday Week, the Varsity Party, and a Mother-Daughter Reception were other activities of the F.H.A. The girls sold candy in the lunch-room each day and thus financed their activities.

The members who attended Executive Council meetings will never forget the slumber party (but where was the slumber?), the weiner roast (did it have to rain?), or the meeting at Miss Scherrer's (let's play a game with fresh eggs!!!).

On March 16, a group of students with Miss Dunn as chaperone left on the National Limited for Washington, D. C. Their five-day tour included the Jefferson and Lincoln Memorials, Washington Monument, Arlington National Cemetery, Bureau of Printing and Engraving, and the United States Capitol.

Little chiefs rule

The four ninth-grade homerooms all had one thing in common this year—the election of officers. The officers tried to bring into the homerooms various types of entertainment. This entertainment also extended outside school hours. There were several parties, field trips, and tours.

At the close of two successful years, the G.A.A. had 43 members of which 4 were seniors, 12 juniors, and 27 sophomores.

During this busy second year, the G.A.A. organized four baskeball teams, several bowling teams, and two softball teams. A system of intramural sports was developed.

Through the efforts of Miss Mosby, the hard-working, able sponsor, and the efforts of an equally hard-working executive council, the G.A.A. had an extremely enjoyable year. The ever-popular Comanche Hops contributed greatly to the social development of the entire student body.

G.A.A. girls worked diligently for letters or emblems, the material awards from this organization.

Open your mouth

Almost every Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday after school, twenty girls entered the music room for a singing lesson.

Because of the illness of Mr. Daniels, the director, the Girls' Glee Club was not able to make many public appearances. Mrs. Mayer helped the Club prepare for the fall concert. After Mr. Daniels returned, the girls sang on several occasions and were entered in contests.

We need more boys

The girls and boys in Mixed Chorus spent part of their lunch hour in singing class. Mr. Lee directed the Chorus for the Christmas concert. The Mixed Chorus sang several times during the second semester and also entered the annual spring contests.

Let's start before 10

The Cahokia Commonfields High School Band gave its first concert of the season at the dedication of the High School. In the fall, the band members clad in new, blue uniforms marched during the half of home football games. The Band played an important part in several activities of Parks College—once advertising for a Parks' comedy show at two colleges in St. Louis and another time playing for Parks' winter graduation exercises. At Christmas, the Band combined with the Junior High Band for an evening concert. Almost every home basketball game found the school musicians playing spirited marches to spur the team onward. District and state contests brought a busy year to a close.

The progress of the organization was hampered somewhat during the winter by the illness of Mr. Daniels; Mr. Lee, Mrs. Mayer, and Mr. Wirth each gave a helping hand.

I move . . .

The Junior High Student Council was organized to give the students a voice in their own government and to work in cooperation with the Senior High Council. This body met once a week.

Ready, play!

The Junior High Band accomplished much this year; it helped in Cahokia's dedication, gave concerts, played in a clinic, sent Betty Taylor and Lynette Girard to State, and entered contests.

Cahokia's big C's

CCHS's three coaches have done their bit in the training of the teams. They have spent their time not only in teaching the boys, but also in practicing with them. They always took part in pep sessions. To Bill Malinsky, Gus Heath, and Frank Lorton, thanks for a job well done.

"Chink" Camden, last year's baseball captain and most-valuable football player of the '51 season, left this year for the farm club of the St. Louis Cardinals. Here's hoping this former Comanche reaches the top some day.

Bob Remelius and Jerry Wallace were co-captains of this year's gridiron team. That Remelius boy even had a play named after him—the "Remo Special." Not only that, he was the only member of the squad playing football all four of his high-school years.

Jerry gets his name in the "Big C" column again as he shares honors with Gus Herderhorst. These two were co-captains of this season's basketball team. Jerry, the corner-jump king, had a way with the ball. His pleasant personality made him a swell addition to the team. Many an opponent has lost the ball to Gus, who was always in there at the right time. Not only can "Monster" dribble like a "pro," but he is one of those guys who always roots for the B team.

The boy with the winged feet, Gene Vogt, earned the honor of being captain of the Cross Country team. Here's another Comanche who takes top honors in sports and grades.

"Give me a C" shouted through the megaphones of the five cheerleaders, Jean Bollinger, Jane Hill, Carol Keeney, Jean White, and Bobby Sudberry, was one of the things that spurred on the Comanches. Mrs. Logan helped the four girls and a guy work up many new cheers. Fifteen rahs for this great team!

Scrappy, but far to go

This year's football team did not have an impressive record in total points scored. However, each Comanche on the squad will long remember the fun he had playing football.

Although there was a feeling among some team members that the will to win could have been stronger, the football squad of '52 will always remember the comradeship they experienced in all aspects of football, including those bus trips echoing with their "Give Me a C," that locker room banter which produced unexpected gems of wit, and their "Utt" language which they supposed Coach Malinsky could not interpret.

The co-captains of the team were Bob Remelius and Jerry Wallace. The most valuable player award went to Gary Groce.

The "B" Squad, made up of sophomores and inexperienced juniors, played good hard football this year. The fact that they usually had no more than two or three subs for any one game was the det rmining factor in their losses. These boys improved tremendously during the season.

On your mark

With the boys in the picture, Norman Jung, Gary McDaniel, Charles Groves, Melvin Scharf, and Ed Johnston made up Cahokia's first Cross-Country team. Captain Gene Vogt set the team record in 10' 30.6" for the 2-mile course. The team won 2 while losing 3, placed 4th in the conference and 10th in the district.

Ugh - no scalps

The first Ninth-Grade Football Team did not have an impressive record; but the experience gained this year will surely tell in the coming years. The captain of the team was Richard LeSieur and the coach was Carl Dillow. The scores of the games were: Bethalto, 13—Cahokia, 0; Belleville, 21—Cahokia, 13; Dupo, 32—Cahokia, 7; Madison, 34—Cahokia, 15.

Track and baseball are spring attractions

Last spring if you happened by the Maplewood Grade School playing field you would have seen high-school boys practicing track activities under the direction of Coach "Gus" Heath. Since Cahokia had no field on which to hold track events, all meets were held by member schools. Hurdler John O'Dell qualified for the State Track Meet.

Last spring also saw the opening page of baseball history at Cahokia. Because of injuries and illness, the team was at full strength for the first game only. Don Camden led the team's batting averages with .315; Charles Groves was second with .310. Bill Thompson, Barney Holley, W. R. Morris, Tommy Hopewell, Don Neuman, Gary Groce, Charles Groves, Norman Jung, Don Camden, Alvie Taylor, Gus Herderhorst, Ronnie Napier, John Bohannon, and Jim Hopewell received letters.

The Comanches beat Edwardsville 3-0 and Freeburg 6-4. DeBourge won over Cahokia 7-0 and 7-2; Central Catholic, 3-2; Madison, 1-0 and 5-3;Highland, 5-0; East St. Louis, 9-5; and Belleville (tournament), 5-4.

The Cahokia Junior Varsity did better than the Varsity in that they won 11 games while losing 9. They didn't score as many points as the Varsity, but they had a season's total of 1,047 or 52.4 points per game. The opposition scored 992 points or an average of 44.6 per game. There were several very exciting games which indicates that much strength will be added to the team next year.

The Cahokia Comanches, victors in 8 out of 20 games they played, had a better team than the records show. The Comanches lost several close ballgames that should have been theirs. This is shown by the fact that the opposition had only 31 more points than did the Comanches. In regular season play, the Cahokia five scored a total of 1,150 points or a 57.5 per game average against the opposition's 1,181 points or an average of 59 points per game.

The biggest point total against one team was 87 against Staunton. The closest game and probably the most thrilling was the 70 - 68 double overtime against Lebanon.

We're Junior Comanches:

The ninth-grade basketball team did well this year; they played 16 games of which they won 9 and lost 7. They won third place in the December invitational tourney. Scores of the winning games were: 45-42 (E. Alton); 47-41 (W. Alton); 73-54 (Clark); 44-33 (Rock); 55-39 (Bethalto); 56-52 (O'Fallon); 47-38 (Landsdowne); 40-37 (W. Alton); 47-29 (Rock). Losing scores were: 51-56 (O'Fallon); 38-40 (Central); 40-41 (Central); 39-41 (Landsdowne); 45-52 (Central); 35-56 (E. Alton); 48-64 (Collinsville); 39-43 (Madison).

couldn't be prouder

The season was not a good one for the seventh and eighth grade basketball team. Mr. Pistor and Mr. Williams coached these junior-high boys. The coaches and team think more than two victories should have been chalked up.

Under the guidance of Mr. Pistor and Mr. Williams, the Touch Football team practiced four nights a week at Maplewood Grade School field. The team was composed of about twenty boys from the seventh and eighth grades. The captain position was filled by Charlie Mardirosian, Jerry Neblett, and Dale Jung.

When Autumn leaves begin to fall

One of the most important events of the fall months was the Homecoming Dance. Jane Hill, escorted by Deacon Halasey, was crowned Homecoming Queen, Cahokia's first, by retiring Football Queen, Mary Ann Burns. Queen Jane looked lovely in her black and white halter-type dress. She carried a bouquet of yellow mums.

Following the retiring Queen into the gym were the attendants and their escorts: Lucretia Lutker and Gus Herderhorst, Carol Keeney and Gary Groce, Shirlee Ripplinger and Don Ramelot, and Melva Gischer with Bob Simpson.

The smooth music of Carlos Comacho and his orchestra was perfect for dancing. John Bohannon, Student Council President, acted as Master of Ceremonies.

Walking in a Winter Wonderland

For just one evening near the end of the first semester, the gym was transformed into a Winter Wonderland by the F.H.A. The theme was carried out in blue and white decorations. Huge snowballs hung from the ceiling and crepe-paper icicles enclosed the dance floor.

Faunt Warren and his Aristocrats provided the music for dancing. Charlotte Thompson, a sophomore, was chosen as Queen to reign over the Winter Wonderland. She was escorted by Bill Buxton. Queen Charlotte's dress was of light blue faille with rhinestones glittering on a strapless bodice. The new Queen received her crown from the retiring Fairyland Queen, Carol Keeney, who was escorted by Bob Remelius.

Attendants to the Queen were Margie Wild escorted by Ronnie Gregory, Margaret Rice escorted by Jack Hall, Pat Jackowski escorted by Lloyd Eggleston, Jo Ann Lorenze, the Queen's Maid of Honor, escorted by Bill Thompson.

Dreamer's Holiday

1952 Prom Queen, Patty Ann Rubel

In the spring of '52 the first Junior-Senior Prom was given in the Parks College gym. The Jimmy Fischer Orchestra provided the music for a Dreamer's Holiday. The Dream Girl of 1952, Patty Ruebel, was escorted by Marvin Hartline, now her husband. Preceding the Dream Girl to the throne were attendants Melva Gischer escorted by Ron Wilkening, Carol Keeney escorted by Bob Remelius, Dolores Ripplinger escorted by John O'Dell, and Dorma Wakefield escorted by Tommy Hopewell. Les and Doug Sluder, Susie Knecht, and Janie Malinsky were also members of the court.

The Juniors of last year deserve much credit for a highly successful Prom.
